

This disclaimer applies to the websites and platforms of Bakr&Berg.com.

Bakr&Berg products have been developed with care. The products are hypoallergenic. This means that allergic reactions can still occur. When this happens, stop using the product. Stop using a product if it causes irritation (redness, itching, burning, flaking, pain, or other symptoms). Do not use the products if you are allergic to one of the ingredients.

If you have a medical skin problem, please contact your doctor or dermatologist. The information on this website is not a substitute for a personal consultation. The products are not suitable for internal use. The products are not suitable for children, unless stated otherwise.

Prices may change. The applicable price is the price as indicated on the website at the time of ordering, or in any case at the time when the agreement was formed. All prices are subject to typing errors.

Bakr&Berg is not liable for the content of the websites of third parties to which reference is made.

If you are dissatisfied with a product, please contact us as soon as possible via the contact form, so that we can offer a suitable solution.

We reserve the right to change the content of this disclaimer. To stay informed of any changes, we advise you to consult this disclaimer regularly.